

The house of Metje Juriaens, sold to her by Burger Jorissen. It was built on the lot conveyed to Jorissen in January, 1660, by the burgomasters, "in exchange for his lot surveyed off" (Liber Deeds, A: 182, 184), a transaction against which Allard Anthony protested, as the land was really a part of his garden.—Rec. N. Am., VII: 159; Min. of Orph. Court, II: 151.
